An ideal student for this class will have an inquiring that looks deeper than the superficial data and information found on the internet. It is important in this class to look at the information gained from research objectively, and then make your own interpretations and conclusions. It is also important to take information from one project and to connect it with other projects. Students should also be prepared to lead discussions actively.				Students in this class need to prepare and practice presentations regularly that give a clear insight into the concepts being discussed. Students are expected to research material from a wide range of sources in preparation for these presentations. They are also expected to actively participate in discussions.
